

JACEK JADACKI
Institute of Philosophy
University of Warsaw
jjadacki@gmail.com

A Few Remarks about the Conscience Clause

The paper discusses some questions arising on the margins of the article Does Polish law guarantee the conscience clause for physicians? by Father Andrzej Szostek. The author of the paper indicates essential doubts as to the scope of the validity of norms and their limiting clauses even if these norms and clauses are formulated very generally. These doubts concern, in particular, the method of establishing operational definitions for notions that come here into play.

Keywords:

abortion, complicity, conscience clause, norm, vagueness of legal notions